

Come May 11 and 12, Miri will be resonating with jazz music as the annual Borneo Jazz festival makes a comeback. With yet another interesting line-up of performers from different corners of the globe, the festival looks set to woo avid fans of jazz music who come not only from Miri, but beyond that as well.

Borneo Jazz will take place at the newly open Pullman Miri Waterfront. It is a perfect location not too far off from the city centre, and it offers breathtaking views of the sea.

Borneo Jazz returns to Miri

May 11 to 12, 2018
Pullman Miri Waterfront, Miri

The line-up was yet to be announced at time of print, but the festival has brought in pretty impressive acts in the past, including Delgres from Guadeloupe/France, Osaka Monaurail from Japan, Laila Biali from Canada and Michael Simon's Asian Connection from the Netherlands and Taiwan.

Get set for two nights of jazzerrific music at the 2018 Borneo Jazz!
